PARENT TEACHER MEET

A Parent-Teacher Meet was organized on 10 January, 2023 with the primary objective of fostering effective communication and collaboration between parents and teachers. The meet spanned from 9 :00 a.m. to 1 :00 p.m., providing ample time for meaningful interactions.

During the meet, parents had the opportunity to engage in one-on-one discussions with their child's teachers. These individual sessions allowed for personalised conversations concerning the student's academic progress, behavior, and overall development. Teachers shared valuable insights and feedback based on their careful observations and assessments.

At 11 :45 a.m., all parents convened in the Audio Visual room for a common session. The session was led by Ms. K. Hannah Anuhya, the Vice Principal of the Degree program, and Ms. A. Jyostna Valenteena, the Dean of Academic Affairs. During this session, the parents were enlightened about short-term and long-term internships. The speakers elaborated on the college's commitment to taking every precautionary measure to ensure students are placed in reputable companies.

INTERNSHIP :

Internships are more than just resume boosters; they have the potential to shape our perspectives, develop invaluable skills, and open doors to a world of opportunities. In a recent conversation with Ms. Jyotsna, the Internship Coordinator, a group of students who completed internships shared their experiences, lessons learned, and plans for the future.

Reshma Revathi, a BA HEP student, expressed gratitude for the first-hand insights gained into their desired fields. Through internships, they witnessed the inner workings of industries they aspire to join. This exposure provided them with a deeper understanding and motivation to pursue their chosen careers.

Besma D'Costa, a BA Lit. student, highlighted the transformative role internships played in their development. Actively participating in day-to-day operations allowed them to cultivate a diverse range of skills, particularly honing their communication skills through collaboration with colleagues, superiors, and clients.

Navya Nikitha, a BBA DM student, shared her experience of applying classroom knowledge in a real-world setting. Developing a social media campaign for a new product launch allowed her to utilize her marketing principles, target audience analysis, content creation, and data analysis skills. The impact of her work and feedback from experienced professionals was truly rewarding.

Similarly, B.Sc. MPCS student acknowledged the hands-on application of their skills during a technology internship. The challenges they faced while developing a software application enhanced their problem-solving abilities and provided a deeper understanding of the industry.

The students unanimously agreed that internships influenced their perspectives on future challenges and opportunities. By observing professionals in action and experiencing the day-to-day realities of the industry, they gained awareness of the intricacies and nuances that textbooks cannot capture. This awareness will guide their decision-making and help them navigate future career challenges.

Completing internships was described as a significant milestone in personal and professional journeys. The knowledge and experiences gained equipped them with practical skills highly valued in the professional world, such as effective communication, problem-solving, and time management. The confidence gained from successfully handling real-life challenges instilled belief in their ability to thrive in their chosen fields.

In brief, the conversation with the Internship Coordinator and the students revealed the transformative power of internships. Their first-hand experiences, practical skills, industry insights, and networking connections have set them on a path to success in their chosen fields. With a strong foundation and a sense of direction, these students are well-prepared to embark on their future endeavors. Best of luck to them as they continue their journey toward personal and professional growth.

GREEN INITIATIVES:

The college has shown a strong commitment to sustainability and conservation through a range of green initiatives. One of the key initiatives is the implementation of rainwater harvesting pits. These pits effectively collect and store excess rainwater, which is then utilized for practical classes of agriculture students. Additionally, the collected rainwater undergoes purification using appropriate methods, such as reverse osmosis, to make it suitable for drinking purposes for both staff and students.

In line with the college's environmental consciousness, a plastic-free campus policy has been put into effect. This policy aims to minimize plastic waste and encourages the use of eco-friendly alternatives. Furthermore, the college has taken measures to conserve water, including the installation of sprinklers in the garden. This ensures the optimal use of water resources while maintaining a healthy and vibrant green space on the campus.

Energy efficiency is another focus area of the college's green initiatives. To reduce electricity consumption, energy-efficient LED bulbs have been installed in common areas. This transition to LED technology not only contributes to energy conservation but also helps to create a more sustainable campus environment.

To raise awareness about climate change and other environmental issues, the Eco-Ambassadors of the Green Club actively engage with experts in the field. The students had interaction with renowned individuals such as Frederick De Gryse and Patrizia Civetta, founders of the Social Ecology Education Fund, Brussels gaining valuable insights and knowledge about the importance of addressing climate change.

On special occasions like Independence Day and Gandhi Jayanthi, the college organizes events and drives to emphasize the significance of environmental conservation. The mega plantation drive organized by the Department of Botany on Independence Day highlights the importance of tree planting and its positive impact on the environment. Collaboration with the Academy of Gandhian Studies for the greening and plantation drive on Gandhi Jayanthi aligns with the college's mission to promote environmental values inspired by Mahatma Gandhi.

Addressing the issue of e-waste, the college conducted a virtual workshop on "Sustainable Electronic Waste Management" in collaboration with the IQAC. The workshop featured resource persons from the Future Recyclers Foundation in Mumbai, who provided valuable insights on managing electronic waste in a sustainable manner. This workshop aimed to raise awareness among students and faculty about the growing problem of e-waste and its impact on the environment and human health.

Through these various green initiatives and awareness programs, the college is actively promoting environmental consciousness, sustainability, and responsible practices among its students and faculty. These efforts contribute to creating a greener and more sustainable future for the college community and beyond.

COMMUNITY SERVICE:

Students took up a wide range of activities as part of their community service project. They also focused on creating awareness on important issues such as cyber-crimes. This involved organizing informational sessions and workshops to educate local residents on how to protect themselves from online scams and other forms of cybercrime.

Health was another area of focus for the students. They organized health fairs and educational events in community centers and parks to promote health and wellness among local residents.

Career counseling was another important aspect of the community service project. The students recognized the importance of employment and financial stability, and as a result, organized career counseling sessions to support individuals as they sought to improve their prospects.

In addition, the students recognized the importance of education, and organized a tutoring program for children in underprivileged communities.

The students also took up other initiatives such as the “Each One Plant One” campaign, where they encouraged local residents to plant trees to improve the local environment.

They also distributed paper bags to promote the use of eco-friendly products and displayed charts to educate people on the importance of environmental protection.

The Service Learning Course ‘English for Communication’ offered by Dept. of English is designed to cultivate interest in the young students in their formative years in speaking in English. 17 Sem III students of HELP & HELT have chosen this course.
